POINT OF VIEW: "Our goal was to play up the natural charm by using a nature-inspired palette, while still having a practical and durable space for a busy family in a rainy climate," says Cathy. We love the subtle metallic glint of the leafy wallpaper as a contrast to the Noguchi pendant.

KELLY DECK

"I love the cosy, unpretentious feeling of this traditional entry. It seems collected and very authentic"

WHAT MAKES IT WORK: The antique furniture and generous Persian rug form a perfectly balanced composition. The exuberant wallpaper of etched clouds — which evokes the changing skies over Long Island Sound, where the home is located — brings the space to life.
